1ST EMBL-MONTEROTONDO INTERNATIONAL PHD STUDENTS SYMPOSIUM:
“ANIMAL MODELS – TIPS AND TRICKS FROM NATURE”
CURRENT APPLICATIONS OF ANIMAL MODELS FOR RESEARCH AND INDUSTRY

Information for Sponsors

OPPORTUNITIES:

We believe that your participation at this symposium would be a unique opportunity for your company for many reasons:

(i) You would have the possibility to target a large number of young and established scientists, who may actively use your products on the bench and make purchasing decisions in their institutions. We expect more than 100 researchers to come from all Europe and around the world;

(ii) The location of the meeting will attract furthermore a “local” audience of scientists from EMBL, described by Time magazine as one of the leading research institutions in Europe*, and Università Tor Vergata, but also from neighboring institutions, such as Università La Sapienza, the Centro Nazionale delle Ricerche, the Istituto Superiore della Sanità, etc.).

(iii) The EMBL Mouse Biology Programme based in Monterotondo (RM), is a recently established basic research center of excellence and innovation in mouse genetics and functional genomics, capturing new opportunities and applications of mouse genetic manipulation and becoming a hub for the international mouse research network.

(iii) As the symposium is mostly aimed at young researchers, many of whom will soon be finishing degrees, it would provide you with an opportunity to promote career opportunities in your company.
